ERRATA

In the article "Keeping a Home: Changing Mortgage Markets and Regional Economic Distress" by Barbara S. Heisler and Lily M. Hoffman, vol. 20, no. 3, page 237, the sentence "One significant consequence has been that delinquent homeowners face greater difficulties in negotiating forbearance agreement . . ." is incorrect. The correct sentences are "One significant consequence has been that delinquent homeowners face greater difficulties in negotiating forbearance agreements and are therefore more likely to lose their homes. While forbearance agreements are only short term solutions and cannot stem the rising tide of foreclosures among the unemployed, in the absence of institutional provisions to help delinquent homeowners keep their homes, they do provide some breathing space." Our apologies to the authors.
